REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACIOUS MAJESTY,

1. We, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland, appointed under an Act passed in the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for the more effectual Application of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland," humbly beg leave to submit to your Majesty this our Twenty-fifth Annual Report.

2. It is with regret we have to state that since the date of our last Report to your Majesty death has deprived us of our official Chairman, the Right Honorable Edward Walsb, late Master of the Rolls in Ireland. We deem it due to his memory to record in this Report our sense of his high intelligence, his unbending integrity, his gentlemanlike courtesy, and his unflinching assiduity in his attendance at the meetings of the Board; qualities which commanded the respect and esteem of all his colleagues, and tended largely to the satisfactory despatch of the important business confided to us, as well as to the harmony and efficiency of our proceedings.

3. Since the date of our last Report thirty-three meetings have been summoned, and we regret to state that of these no fewer than sixteen have been ineffective, a circumstance which has been productive of much inconvenience and delay to a large number of important charities awaiting our decision. These repeated failures to form a Board have been attributable to the difficulty of securing the attendance of five of our members, the number which by the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign is required for the despatch of business. We may observe that at fourteen out of those sixteen abortive meetings, three members at least of our Commission were present. The difficulty now referred to is one which has been more or less felt since the establishment of the present Board, but has been productive of more serious inconvenience since the passing of the Act of the 30th and 31st years of your Majesty's reign, which largely increased the powers conferred on us by the previous statute. It would have been still more sensibly felt but for the arrangements adverted to in some of our recent Reports, by which our Secretaries, who are members of the Bar, acting on general principles laid down by us for their guidance, carry on the correspondence and conduct the general business of our department in such a manner, that the several cases before being submitted for our decision are usually brought by them to a stage at which they are ripe for our final adjudication.

4. Feeling that the time has arrived when a change in the law respecting the present quorum is demanded; finding also from our experience of the working of the recent statute, that in order to make it effectual for the objects for which it was enacted, several of its provisions will require to be amended, we directed our Secretaries to prepare and submit for our consideration such suggestions for the amendment of the law as from their experience they thought necessary or desirable for remedying existing defects. These have been laid before us, and are now under our consideration; and before the next Session of Parliament we shall hope to lay before your Majesty's Government such and so many of them as we shall deem essential for remedying defects. To many of these we have adverted in our two previous Reports.

5. Our further experience of the working of an Act now nearly three years in operation fully warrants us in expressing our opinion that the increased powers conferred on us by it have proved beneficial to charities and charity property, not only by having enabled us without expense to establish several small charities which would otherwise have remained inoperative—as they had previously for several years—but also in having saved from the costs of litigation in the Court of Chancery others which, though possessed of considerable funds, would have been seriously diminished in value had they been brought into that Court. We entertain no doubt that a judicious extension of these powers will produce still more satisfactory results.

6. We have continued to require executors to comply with the salutary provisions contained in the 19th section of the Act passed in the 30th and 31st years of your Majesty's reign, obliging them to publish in local newspapers, as well as in the Dublin Gazette, the various charitable bequests contained in the wills proved by them.

7. We have been obliged to resort to the Court of Chancery in order to establish five important charities, and to have schemes framed for their future administration. We are also bringing into operation in the city of Dublin a charity school for female orphans, which, though founded and endowed by a benevolent testator early in the present century, was so much pressed down by former litigation, by costs, and accumulations of renewal fines, that his intentions could not sooner be carried into effect. We have not only succeeded in clearing off the various charges and incumbrances, but have been able to raise the annual income of the property from a sum below £300, at which it stood at the period of the founder's death, to a punctually paid net annual rental of £750. We also obtained a perpetuity of the charity property from the late Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners, thus securing it from all future danger of eviction by a further accumulation of renewal fines.

8. The taxed costs of our solicitor for the various proceedings taken by us during the year ending the 31st of March last, amounted to the sum of £606 13s. 5d. We however expect that no portion of this sum will ultimately fall upon the public, inasmuch as we either hold charity properties applicable to the payment of the costs incurred in each case, or we have obtained decrees with costs against the defendants; and we thus hope to repay, before the close of the financial year, any advances made on this head by the Treasury, or voted by the House of Commons.

9. In the month of May in each year we devote a sum of £93 12s. 10d. to the payment of marriage portions to a number of respectable young women in the parish of Rush, in the county of Dublin, whose names are submitted to us on the joint recommendation of the Protestant and Roman Catholic clergymen of that parish. This is the interest of a bequest left for the above purpose, under certain conditions, by the late Mr. Roger Palmer, which had accumulated to the sum of £3,121 7s. 7d., but which was for many years applied to other purposes by his representatives, and recovered by us from them under a decree of the Court of Chancery. Believing that a charity such as this, however well intended, would readily degenerate into an abuse, we had a scheme framed under the authority of the Court of Chancery, the provisions of which are strictly carried out. We are much assisted in the discharge of our duties each year by the care and prudence shown by the clergymen of the parish in selecting deserving recipients.

10. Previously to the passing of the Act of the 11th and 12th years of your Majesty's reign, which abolished arrest of the person of a debtor for a sum not exceeding £10, except in certain cases, it was the habit of benevolent persons to bequeath sums of money to procure the release of poor debtors. A few of these bequests fall under our administration, and we experience considerable difficulty in their application, owing to the exceptional circumstances under which debtors can now be arrested for small sums. Should the law of arrest in this country be assimilated to that now in force in England, it will supersede the necessity for these bequests, and will enable us to apply them to purposes more practical and useful.

11. The important provision contained in the 15th section of the Act of the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, whereby persons or bodies corporate can by will or deed grant to and vest in us and our successors lands or tenements in trust for building, enlarging, and upholding or furnishing chapels or places of religious worship of persons professing the Roman Catholic religion, or for building residences for the use of the archbishops, bishops, or other persons in holy orders of the Roman Catholic Church, has been but seldom resorted to. This may probably have been attributable to the practice hitherto uniformly adopted by us, of refusing such grants when any rent was reserved, or whenever a condition was annexed to the trust. A proceeding in the Court of Chancery to try the legality of this practice is now pending, and awaits a judicial decision.

12. Each year according as the provisions of the Act of the 30th and 31st years of your Majesty's reign, enabling us to advise trustees, to sanction compromises of charity claims, to accept the custody of funds, to sanction leases, surrenders, and sales of charity property, and to exercise other powers of a like nature for the protection of charities, become better known, persons charged with the administration of charitable trusts are more anxious to avail themselves of our jurisdiction, which can be resorted to without expense to the charity property.

13. The various funds and shares in public companies voluntarily transferred to us since the passing of the recent Act enabling us to accept them, as well as the names of the several charities in which they were transferred, will be found in the Schedule No. 8 in the Appendix to this Report. Other funds were offered, but declined by us, as the circumstances under which they were offered, or the conditions imposed upon our acceptance, did not warrant us in taking charge of them.

14. Since our last Report to your Majesty we have held seventeen meetings for the despatch of business. At these, in addition to providing for the usual payments and distribution of funds under our control, we made 171 orders in various charity matters.

15. In our Twenty-third Report we noticed the alteration in the system of keeping that portion of our accounts called our "Private Account," which came into operation on the 1st of April, 1868. Accounts have been regularly furnished by us during the past year in accordance with the forms then adopted, under the direction of the Treasury, and the provisions of the "Exchequer and Audit Departments Act, 1866."

16. We annex to this our Report, in Schedule No. 2, a copy of the Abstract of our Accounts in the several Charities under our administration, from 1st January, 1869, to 31st December last; the details of which with their vouchers having been lodged as usual with Master Fitzgibbon for examination and audit, have been examined and passed, and a declared copy lodged in the Privy Council Office, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Parliament.

17. The total amount of the trust funds which were under our care and control in cash, and vested in Government and other securities on the 31st December last, is set forth in the 4th, 5th, and 6th Schedules, the particulars of which, together with the objects of each trust fund, will be found in Schedule No. 7.

18. The annual amount of rents and annuities under our guardianship at the same period specifying the particular amount of each, with the name of the testator or donor by whom created, the source from whence each is derived, and the object of each trust, is given in Schedule No. 9; and in Schedule No. 10 will be found a Return of Charity Funds standing to the credit of causes or matters in the Court of Chancery, in which the title of the Charity has been established by decree or order.

All which we submit as our Report to your Most Excellent Majesty, and in testimony thereof have caused our corporate seal to be hereto affixed, this 7th day of July, 1870.
